About the Sources

Bible Curriculum: Catalog of 34 Courses

Each course carries 3 credit hours and runs twelve weeks, self-paced. The curriculum is written from a conservative Reformed Baptist perspective and receives Scripture as the divinely inspired and infallible Word of God. It covers all 66 books of the Bible, 1,189 chapters (Old Testament 929, New Testament 260), in twenty Old Testament and fourteen New Testament courses.

Status of the courses. Full course packets (syllabus, schedule, quizzes, examinations, and instructor's keys) have been prepared for 21 courses: OT 101, OT 102, OT 103, OT 104, OT 105, OT 201, OT 202, OT 203, OT 204, OT 301, OT 302, OT 303, OT 304, OT 401, OT 402, OT 403, OT 404, OT 405, NT 101, NT 102, NT 103. The remaining 13 courses are described in this catalog only; their reading lists and confession chapters are provisional until each packet is written.

Notes

Course codes. OT 1xx Pentateuch; OT 2xx Historical Books; OT 3xx Poetry and Wisdom; OT 4xx Prophets; NT 1xx Gospels and Acts; NT 2xx Pauline Epistles; NT 3xx Hebrews, General Epistles, and Revelation.

Prerequisites. A suggested sequence. Begin with OT 101 and NT 101; NT 201 (Romans I) opens the Pauline courses.

1689 Confession. The chapters of the Second London Baptist Confession of Faith (1677/1689) each course connects to. For the built courses this column gives exactly the chapters assigned in the weekly schedule. Companion (optional): Samuel E. Waldron, A Modern Exposition of the 1689 Baptist Confession of Faith (Darlington, UK: Evangelical Press, 1989).

Commentaries. John Gill's expositions cover every book of the Bible: An Exposition of the Old Testament (Genesis to the Song of Solomon), An Exposition of the Books of the Prophets of the Old Testament (Isaiah to Malachi), and An Exposition of the New Testament. Works in the public domain are listed first; modern works under copyright are marked "optional." The modern Calvinistic Baptist authors listed are credobaptist and Calvinistic, though not all are confessional 1689 Baptists. Works from the broader Reformed and evangelical tradition (Calvin, Owen, Henry, M'Crie, Krummacher, Ryle, Bridges, Alexander, Fairbairn, Barnes, Blaikie, Hodge, Manton, Davis, Kidner, Motyer, Ash, Ryken, Young, Duguid, Robertson, Murray, Johnson) are paedobaptist; note this in the units on baptism and the covenants. Authors, titles, publishers, and dates have been checked against library catalog records, publishers' records, and digitized copies.

Commentaries by Course

Free works in the public domain come first, with a link to a digitized copy where one has been located; modern works under copyright are marked optional. Calvin's commentaries are cited in the translations of the Calvin Translation Society (Edinburgh) and linked to the Christian Classics Ethereal Library.

About the Sources

Scripture. Scripture quotations in the courses are from the King James Version (Authorized Version, 1611), in its standard 1769 text, which is in the public domain. Every quotation, and every quiz or examination answer that depends on the wording of a verse, has been checked against two independent electronic copies of the KJV text. Students may read the assigned passages in any faithful word-for-word translation, but questions that turn on wording follow the KJV, and answers should be given in KJV words.

The Confession. The Second London Baptist Confession was put forth in 1677 by "the elders and brethren of many congregations of Christians (baptized upon profession of their faith) in London and the country," and was reissued in 1688/89; it is commonly called the 1689 Confession. Quotations are from the first printing of 1677 (Wing C5794), checked against the page images of that printing. Spelling, punctuation, and capitalization are modernized; the wording is unchanged, with no word added, dropped, replaced, or moved. Older forms that belong to the wording, such as "hath," "doth," and "unto," are kept. The full text of every confession chapter assigned in a course is printed in that course's Appendix A.

Commentaries. Authors, titles, editions, and dates of the works listed have been checked against library catalog records, publishers' records, and digitized copies. Older works in the public domain are listed first, with links to free digitized copies where one has been located. Modern works under copyright are optional and are marked so.
